

Anna Sipos

European Studies, The Hague University of Applied Sciences

2023

“While pursuing my Bachelor's degree in European Studies, I had the chance to work as an intern at Leiden International Centre for a period of 4-5 months. I was drawn to this position because of its international focus and practical approach to completing tasks, which allowed me to gain valuable experience.

During my placement, I had the opportunity to develop new skills in social media and website management, event planning, and digital writing. Moreover, I was able to enhance my communication skills by keeping in touch with our clients and partners and expanding my network. The most rewarding aspect of my work was seeing an event come alive and receiving positive feedback from people about our services. Throughout my placement, my supervisors continuously provided me with valuable feedback that helped me improve my work and grow professionally.

I highly suggest considering an internship with Leiden International Centre. The team is both dedicated and friendly, with a wealth of knowledge and experience to share. One of the things I appreciated most was the freedom they gave me to work toward my professional goals and take on various responsibilities. Additionally, interns are treated as equal team members, creating a pleasant working environment.”